Kind Friend:

Thine is a wealth of womanhood,
A mind of might; a heart of good.
We feel that in the future thine
A mission is almost divine.
Faint not nor falter; tho' the night
May gather round thee, heaven's light
Will break the darkness. God is near
To those whose lives are sweet & clear.

Leonard Garver.

Oberlin College, 1874.

"Oh The eight thousand eyes,
And the day but one,
Yet the light of the whole world dies
With the dying sun.
The world has a thousand eyes,
And the heart but one;
Yet the light of a whole life dies
When love is done."

Daybrook, Ohio.

Your friend,
Victoria R.

I know not the way I am going,
But well do I know my Guide;
With child-like trust I give my hand
To the Mighty Friend at my side;
And the only thing that I say to Him
As He takes it is: - Hold it fast,
Suffer me not to lose my way, and lead me
Home at last.

Dieu, qui sourit et qui donne,
Et qui vient vers qui l'attend,
Pourvu que vous soyez bonne,
Sera content.

Le monde où tout étincelle,
Mais où rien n'est enflammé
Pourvu que vous soyez bête
Sera charmé

Mon cœur, dans l'ombre amoureuse
Où l'enivrent deux beaux yeux
Pourvu que tu sois heureuse
Sera joyeux.

My Annie:

Let nothing disturb thee,
Nothing affright thee;
All things are passing;
God never changeth;
Patient endurance
Attaineth to all things;
Who God possesseth
In nothing is wanting:
Alone God sufficeth.

To President Fairchild,
Oberlin College, Ohio.
Dear Sir,

Mrs. A. J. Cooper,
whom this line will introduce
to you, was from her childhood taught in my school. She has for a number of years been one of my assistant teachers. She voluntarily resigns this post of tuition, and applies for admission to Oberlin College, that she may, by the further prosecution of liberal studies, be better qualified to take part in the great work, now going forward in the South, for the Christian education of its colored people. To an active partici-

Mrs. Cooper has read some two or three hundred pages, - excerpt, from Xenophon, Plato, Herodotus, and Thucydides; in Greek poetry, several books of the Iliad. In Latin, she has read Caesar's seven books of Commentaries De Bello Gallico, Sallusti Jugurtha and Catiline, half a dozen select orations of Cicero, and six books of Virgil's Aeneid. She is a thorough algebraist, and has mastered the first seven books of Robinson's Geometry.

In very warm terms commending Mrs. Cooper to your entire confidence and esteem, and begging that you will take a personal interest in her progress as a student and in her general welfare, I am, with great respect,
John E. C. Smedes, Principal of St. Augustine's Normal School.
